36 Handles

Econom (GU) - the lock has one locking point. This kind of lock creates a gap between the floor and the door resulting into loose fit of the casement. Thus it is good for being installed inside the building.

Security (GU) - the lock has three locking points. Bolts are locked and blocked by the key.

Hook (GU) - in this lock closing bolts are changed with hooks, which assure higher level of breaking security. Bolts are locked and blocked by the key.

Door Locks 37

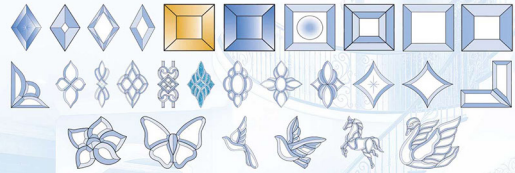

Europe (GU) - the lock with three locking points which can be also extended with angular transmission and extra bolts. Such lock is suitable for constructions more than 2400 mm height. Bolts are closed by turning up the handle. The lock is blocked by the key.

WILKA (FUHR) - the lock with three locking points which are shifted closer to center. This feature makes the lock perfectly suitable for double casement doors.

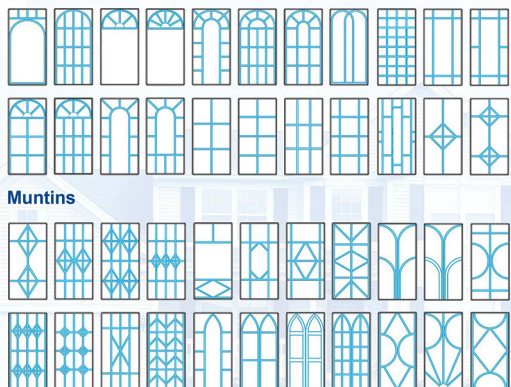

Security (MR2) - in this lock there are three locking points to provide for a securely locked door. Thanks to hardened steel inserts, MR bolts are proof against being sawn through in accordance with the SKG directives. Bolts are locked and blocked by the key.
